"Lest We Forget"

Did not have the communion this today but only had the talk at the devotional meeting - took the theme of the Resurrection and it seemed to help to have many rise to have received it

Had the preparatory service. Had each
one of the communicants,
class come in & say
he separately at
the afternoon and
had a little talk
with them and
prayed with each
one. Was very inspiring for me.

Had a short experience
in the evening. Only for very without very
many profound changes.
I have been doing
a little more studying
and hope to still further increase the amount when I can do each day.

Went right to work this week without more ado and began to call again. I find that I have somewhat less of a job on my hands in the matter of calling than I thought at first. I ought to get it well cleaned up.

Studied in the morning. Made some calls in the afternoon and read Acts in the evening. Have been trying to get some sort of a notion about the background of the Book of Acts. Am making very slow progress. Have read Josephus and have Schurer and Deissmann at hand.

In spite of a rather dreary day there was a pleasable attendance. They seemed to be much pleased with us and asked me if I would consider coming if they were to make it a call. Said that I would do that thing.

"Lest We Forget."

Had a talk with Mr. Symes who seems to be one of the leading men in the church and he expressed high hopes. The meeting on this Wed. will probably not take up this & the many items at all.

"Lest We Forget."

Went back to my work again. Have the prospect of preaching on next Sunday here in Cleveland. But it is merely one of those fleeting things which affords no particular stimulation.
